alzheimer's  association[®]

The Alzheimer's Association leads the way to end Alzheimer's and all other dementia — by accelerating global research, driving risk reduction and early detection, and maximizing quality care and support. We work on a national and local level to provide care and support for all those affected by Alzheimer's and other dementias.

As the largest nonprofit funder of Alzheimer's research, the Association is committed to advancing vital research toward methods of treatment, prevention and, ultimately, a cure. The Association is the leading voice for Alzheimer's disease advocacy, fighting for critical Alzheimer's research and care initiatives at the state and federal level.

T&D Printing

T&D Printing is a small printing company that has been a big part of our historic downtown Broadway corridor. Located next to the Post Office Parking lot, they have occupied the same storefront for thirty-seven years. During that entire thirty-seven years T&D Printing has been an active member of the New Haven Chamber of Commerce and our community.

Doug Swaidner, one of the owners had this to say about being a part of our business community, "We have gotten to know a lot of good people and businesses in the years we have been here."

While they may be small; a three person shop, their services are many. They have the ability to print full color envelopes, flyers, brochures, business cards, letter heads, door hangers, raffle tickets, and just about anything else you would need printed. Also, because they are small, they have the ability to give your needs a more personal touch.

You can find out more information by clicking here or you can give them a call at (260) 493-4949.

Allen County school districts receiving state funds for broadband access

The East Allen County Schools, Southwest Allen County Schools and Northwest Allen County Schools districts are receiving roughly $400,000 in state grant money to provide connectivity to students attending school remotely while not having access to broadband internet. The money will aid in the purchase of hotspot hardware for students based on individual needs within each school.

The funding will come from the $61.6 million Gov. Eric Holcomb has allocated for the Governors Emergency Education Relief Fund created by the CARES Act. Grants are available to school districts to increase learning gaps among students as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic, with an application focus on developing and improving the availability of distance learning techniques and technologies, as several students across the state chose to attend school remotely this year.

Ivy Tech Fort Wayne engineering programs earn ABET accreditation

The Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology (ABET) has accredited Ivy Tech Community College Fort Wayne's associate degree in engineering technology and associate degree in electrical engineering technology programs. ABET is the global accreditor of college and university programs in applied and natural science, computing, engineering, and engineering technology.

Already accredited by Indiana's Higher Learning Commission, Ivy Tech Fort Wayne took the additional step to attain ABET accreditation, which further reinforces the quality education its students receive. As the premier global accrediting body for engineering programs, ABET accreditation assures that programs produce graduates ready to enter critical technical fields.

"The Engineering Technology and Electrical Engineering programs at Ivy Tech Fort Wayne are exceptional examples of what our college strives toward," Darrel J. Kesler, dean of advanced manufacturing, Engineering and Applied Science, said. "We have two excellent full-time faculty members with master's degrees and many full-time professionals in the community who teach on a part-time basis, bringing 'real world' experience into the classroom."

Indiana Department of Health, Parkview Health partner to increase speed of COVID-19 testing in region

Parkview Health is joining hospitals and health systems across the state as part of the Indiana Department of Health's lab testing network. In partnership with the state, Parkview has obtained lab equipment that will reduce the turnaround time for COVID-19 diagnostic tests in the region.

A new Roche cobas® machine in the lab at Parkview Regional Medical Center will allow the health system to process a high volume of COVID-19 polymerase chain reaction (PCR) tests, with most results available in less than 24 hours.

The shorter turnaround time will benefit the region in several ways:

- Providers may make better informed care decisions and implement care plans sooner.
- Patients will know sooner if they need to remain quarantined or isolated.
- Contact tracers may identify those who may have been exposed faster.

“We are incredibly grateful for the help of Gov. Eric Holcomb, as well as Dr. Kris Box, Dr. Lindsay Weaver and Dr. Sara Blosser with the state Department of Health,” said Jeff Boord, M.D., chief quality and safety officer, Parkview Health. “Due to national demand, we would not have been able to obtain this equipment without the state’s support. We are happy to join their lab network to enable more efficient testing in our region and elsewhere as needed.”
